Jason Carthen, Ph.D.

Known as The Leadership Linebacker™ Dr. Jason Carthen is a former professional football player for the New England Patriots and a highly sought-after international speaker in the areas of leadership, motivation and identifying your purpose in life. Also an award-winning author and media personality, he is passionately committed to helping men reach their full potential and thrive civically as husbands & fathers.

His perfect combination of hilarious stories, life-changing ideas and fun interaction has made him a favorite presenter for groups like The American Dairy Association, FedEx, Honda Motorcars USA, Oxford University in England, Chick-fil-a Corporation and The Federal Government.

A prolific author, Dr. Jason has written over 150 articles and published three books related to leadership, business and personal development. His fourth highly anticipated book, Destiny Focused Leadership™ details the key behavioral traits of successful leaders that want to live and leave a legacy for their followers.

Dr. Jason lives in Aurora, OH with his wife (fondly known as “M”) and their five children.
